Lewis: car finance is 'next PPI'

MONEY expert Martin Lewis has said that motorists could be entitled to one of the biggest payouts in UK history as more than one million complaints have been submitted over car finance.

Millions of customers have raised concerns that they may have been overcharged on car finance according to MoneySavingExpert.com.

Consumer champion Lewis (above) said car finance mis-selling has the potential to be the "second biggest reclaim payout in UK history" after the PPI scandal.

Mr Lewis said: "The numbers of complaints in not much more than a month is staggering – more than I expected."

"It's not surprising that some firms are struggling to respond to complaints in a decent time."

"To frustrated complainers, I'd say for now we should be prepared to give firms some wriggle room."

Wage growth slows in UK

WAGE growth has eased back again as Britain's unemployment rate ticked up but earnings are still outpacing inflation, official figures say.

The Office for National Statistics said average regular pay growth, excluding bonuses, fell to 6.1% in the quarter to January – down from 6.2% in the three months to December, and marking the slowest growth for more than a year.

When taking Consumer Prices Index inflation into account, real regular wages rose by 2% – the highest since the summer of 2019.

GANGS of CANNIBALS are feasting on human corpses piling up as the Caribbean nation of Haiti slides even further towards hell.

The impoverished country was plunged into chaos earlier this month when gangs freed thousands of bloodthirsty criminals from jails.

And a gang boss, nicknamed Barbecue, has emerged as the strongman with Haiti's future in his hands.

Jimmy Chérizier, leader of the notorious G9 and Family gang, is in command of the bulk of the gunmen stirring anarchy in the capital of Port-au-Prince.

It's thought his influence will only grow following the resignation of Haiti's Prime Minister Ariel Henry on Monday night.

Devil

"I am ready to make an alliance with the Devil, ready to sleep in the same bed as the Devil," Chérizier told his supporters last week as his fighters destroyed police stations and other government facilities.

Some claim that the rifle-wielding 47-year-old mobster's nickname comes from his penchant for setting his victims on fire, though he said it's an old moniker his mother gave him as a boy.

He likened himself to Martin Luther King Jr during an interview last year, and was previously a member of the Haitian national police.

He was expelled from the force in 2018 and went on to take over the G9 Family, which controls the slums and streets of Port-au-Prince.

It's believed his followers routinely engage in cannibalism and earlier this week footage emerged of what were claimed to be G9 members eating flesh from freshly-massacred human corpses.

Tory donor apologises for 2019 remarks

SORRY: Frank Hester

TARGET: Diane Abbott

A TYCOON who once loaned Rishi Sunak his helicopter has apologised after reportedly saying MP Diane Abbott made him "want to hate all black women" and that she "should be shot".

The Guardian reported that Frank Hester made the remarks about the then-Shadow Home Secretary during a 2019 meeting.

Mr Hester, who runs a health tech firm and gave the Tories £10m last year, admitted making the "rude" comments about her, but said his remarks "had nothing to do with her gender or colour of skin".

Energy Minister Graham Stuart said Mr Hester's comments were "clearly wrong", but warned against "cancelling anyone who has ever said anything".

When asked on BBC

By COLIN HURST
news@sundaysport.co.uk

Radio 4's Today if the Conservatives should hand back Mr Hester's donations, Mr Stuart said he was not sure.

He said: "Diane Abbott has suffered horribly on social media. What we need is a politics which shows more kindness and understanding of each other, not the vile polarisation we've seen in which people are denigrated and attacked."

Speaking in the Commons, Shadow Health Secretary Wes Streeting said: "This is utterly revolting, racist, and inciteful language. It has no place in our politics and public life."

Mr Hester is the founder and chief exec of TPP, a Leeds-based company specialising in providing healthcare technology.

One of the Tory Party's biggest donors, he gave £5m to them last year, with a further £5m donated through his company.

In November, he gifted Rishi Sunak the use of a helicopter for a political visit, valued at £15,900, according to parliamentary records.

The Guardian wrote he had made remarks about Ms Abbott while criticising a female executive at another organisation during a meeting at TPP's HQ in 2019.

The newspaper said that he went on to say: "It's like trying not to be racist but you see Diane Abbott on the TV, and you're just like, 'I hate... you just want to hate all black women because she's there, and I don't hate all black women at all, but I think she should be shot.'"

We need gas power plants

THE UK risks blackouts unless it builds new, gas-fired power stations, Energy Security Secretary Claire Coutinho has warned.

The new stations will replace existing plants, many of which are aging and will soon be retired.

But the Government said the CO2 produced will not be captured – a measure which limits climate change.

That could threaten a legally binding commitment to cut carbon emissions to net zero by 2050, critics claimed.

The Government said new gas power stations were needed to have a safe and reliable back up for days when renewables like wind and solar simply didn't deliver.

Prime Minister Rishi Sunak said he would not "gamble with our energy security".

The decision is part of a wide-reaching review of how the UK's energy market works.

Pet owners may pay over odds

PET owners could be paying over the odds for medicine or prescriptions, the competition watchdog has warned.

The Competition and Markets Authority launched a review last year over concerns that pet owners could be paying too much and received 56k responses.

Its boss said it had heard worries about pet owners struggling to access basic information, such as price lists.

The British Veterinary Association said that vets were "fundamentally motivated by animal welfare".

The vet industry is worth £2billion after pet ownership rose to two-thirds of UK households during the pandemic.

ICONIC:

By JEAN GRAY news@sundaysport.co.uk

ACTRESS Sarah Michelle Gellar says she LOVED her same-sex snog with co-star Selma Blair in a steamy scene from teen romantic drama Cruel Intentions.

The movie turns 25 this year, and Sarah Michelle, now 46, has opened up on her thoughts and impact of the 'lesbo' kiss.

The babe, who shot to fame as the title character in Buffy the Vampire Slayer, said the scene with Selma – who is five years her senior – was initially seen by an audience of 250 that included Selma's mum.

The film, which is based on the French 1782 novel Les Liaisons Dangereuses, stars Sarah Michelle, Selma and Reese Witherspoon as rich high schoolers. Now considered a cult classic, its 1999 release proved a Box Office smash, grossing £60million.

And, still to this day, the iconic kissing scene is regularly withdrawn from wank banks worldwide.

Looking back at the film's jaw-dropping moment, Sarah Michelle gushed: "Selma has very soft lips... I love kissing her."

Filmed in New York City's Central Park, she also said Selma's mum – lawyer Molly Ann Beitner – asked her afterwards: "Did you have to use so much tongue?!"

Climate crisis will send fruit price bananas

BANANAS are set to get more expensive as climate change hits the much-loved fruit, an expert has warned.

Pascal Liu, senior economist at the World Banana Forum, said climate impacts pose an "enormous threat" to supply, compounding the impacts of diseases.

In its natural yellow wrapper, the nutritious and tasty banana is the most exported fruit around the world.

The UK imports around five billion bananas each year, with around 90% sold through supermarkets.

Last week saw shortages of bananas in UK supermarkets, which retailers said were down to storms at sea, delaying supplies.

But while banana supplies can cope with short-term weather incidents, Mr Liu warned: "I think climate change is really an enormous threat to the banana sector."

Get walking to save NHS

GETTING inactive people to walk just 5,000 steps three times a week could save the NHS £15billion, new research suggests.

Replacing lazy lifestyles with moderate levels of activity would make a significant difference to the nation's overall health, a study found.

Research mapping the behaviour of a million people in the UK and South Africa over the last decade, by insurers Vitality and the London School of Economics, suggests regular exercise can also add up to three years to life expectancy.

BIG BOOBS ARE BACK

YOU already know that your Midweek Sport is ahead of the curve...

And now Britain's oldest magazine has finally caught up with us.

The Spectator - founded in 1828 - has published an article celebrating the return of BIG BOOBS!

In the piece, writer Bridget Phetasy celebrates the "great rack" of Hollywood star Sydney Sweeney, whose boobs were a massive hit when she recently hosted Saturday Night Live.

Bridget penned: "Yay, boobs are back! Wrapped in a revealing little black dress, Sydney thanks the cast, the crew, and giggles and bounces in familiar ways I haven't seen in decades."

Extinction

"For anyone under the age of 25, they've likely never seen it in their lifetime - as the giggling blonde with an amazing rack has been stamped out of existence, a creature shamed to the brink of extinction."

She adds that in the 90s and early Noughties, big boobs were celebrated.

By ANNE COATES
news@sundaysport.co.uk

Bridget wrote: "We could look at boobs and not feel bad about it - and that's a good thing. In fact, I'd argue it's a healthy thing. "Boobs are fantastic. There's a biological component that makes it totally normal to be fascinated by boobs."

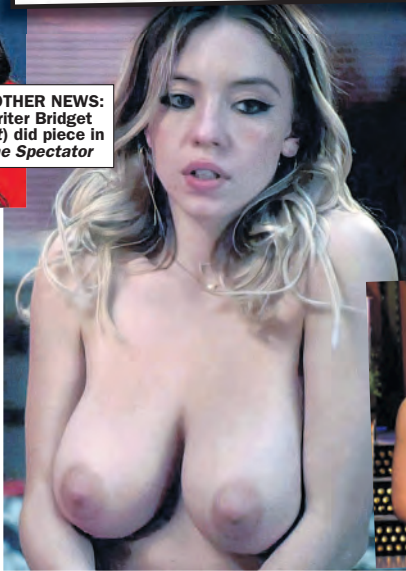

She concluded: "Humour and boobs have returned." And to celebrate the posh end of Fleet Street catching up with us, here are some big, bouncing boobs...

The actress (above) played Prof Sprout in the film series, based on J.K. Rowling's boy-wizard books.

Despite insisting it was "wonderful" and she was "very grateful" to the franchise, the BAFTA award-winning star, 82, admitted: "I worry about Harry Potter fans... they should be over that by now. It was 25 years ago and it's for kids."

"But they get stuck in it... I do cameos and people say, 'Oh, we are having a Harry Potter-themed wedding' and I think, 'Gosh, what's their first night of fun going to be?!'"

"Harry Potter is wonderful... I'm very grateful to it, it's over."

One social media user commented: "You can never be too old for Harry Potter. I just started reading The Philosopher's Stone which is amazing."

"People need a fantasy world to correlate to, to escape from the real world sometimes."

Tate brothers are held in Romania

ANDREW Tate and his brother Tristan have been detained in Romania after European arrest warrants were issued by the UK, his representative said.

The allegations, including sexual aggression, cover 2012 to 2015, his team added.

The Tate brothers "categorically reject all charges", a statement yesterday said.

Romanian police said European arrest warrants for two men were issued by UK authorities for sexual offences on Monday.

The alleged offences also included exploiting people on the territory of Great Britain, the Romanian police statement said.

The two men were presented to the prosecutor attached to the Bucharest Court of Appeal, who ordered their detention for 24 hours, police added.

A WOMAN who chopped up her lover after a row over dirty dishes faces 61 years in jail.

Michelina Goodwin, 46, of Great Mills, Maryland, was found guilty of killing and dismembering her boyfriend and then dumping the remains in various locations.

She was convicted of second-degree murder, use of a firearm in commission of a crime, and the unauthorised disposal of a body in the death of 50-year-old James Nalborczyk.

Nalborczyk's family first reported him missing on December 21, 2022, saying they last saw him two weeks prior to that, the St. Mary's County State's Attorney's office said.

After an extensive investigation, police found Nalborczyk was not simply missing, but had been murdered, and Goodwin was then identified as the main suspect in that murder investigation.

While being probed by investigators in January 2023, she said she and Nalborczyk got into a fight at her home over the washing-up and she accidentally shot and killed him.

A police report stated: "She said that during an altercation she retrieved a firearm from behind the bedroom door and pointed it at Nalborczyk."

"She said that the gun went off, striking Nalborczyk in the back and killing him. She said she then enlisted the help of a friend to assist her in disposing of Nalborczyk's dead body from her home."

She then admitted disposing of the remains in remote parts of St. Mary's and Charles counties, authorities said.

"This horrifying crime shocked the community and caused unimaginable pain to the victim's family," state attorney Jaymi Sterling said.

"Over eight days, the victim's family and jury heard the often graphic circumstances of the victim's final moments and pretty gruesome post-mortem mutilation. The defendant's gutless decisions deprived the victim's family of a proper burial."

KATE PIC: HONESTY BEST POLICY

THE Princess of Wales wanted to own up to her Mother's Day photo blunder as she believed honesty was the "best policy", it has been claimed.

In an astonishing move, Kate Middleton admitted on Monday that she "edited" an image showing her celebrating Mothering Sunday with her three children.

But a Palace insider said the princess felt "awful" about the altered image, and she had tried to make the photo the "best it could be".

It comes after the princess said in a rare personal message on Twitter that she "occasionally experimented as an amateur photographer".

She apologised for any "confusion" the photograph had caused, after six global picture agencies pulled the image from their wires and libraries amid concern that "the source has manipulated the image".

Daryl: I was anxious over nude scenes

DISHY Daryl Hannah says she was "incredibly anxious" about performing nude in the 1984 hit movie Splash.

The 63-year-old actress starred opposite Tom Hanks in the flick, which follows a young man who falls in love with a woman who turns out to be a mermaid.

Daryl revealed that she was "really naive" while working on the film, which was shot when she was in her early twenties.

She also said that she was apprehensive about the prospect of appearing nude.

Sheltered

"I was very world-travelled, but very sheltered at the same time. I hadn't really had a boyfriend yet, so I was incredibly anxious about any nudity," she recalled.

The Kill Bill actress went on to state that director Ron Howard's team devised a method of showing off much of her skin while obscuring her boobs.

She recalled that they "came up with my hair covering my boobs because they didn't want me to have any kind of, I don't know... shell bathing suit top or anything" - which I understood.

Activists catch pig shagger

ANIMAL rights activists who broke into a piggery and installed hidden cameras there, to try and expose animal cruelty, unwittingly caught a worker shagging a HOG.

Among the weeks of video, Farm Transparency Project's cameras captured the alleged act of bestiality at the Midland Bacon plant at Carag Carag, around 150 miles north of Melbourne, Australia.

Police have since charged a man with bestiality and he is due to appear in court in June.

The allegations and images have come on the eve of an inquiry in state parliament into the welfare of farmed pigs.

In a statement, Midland Bacon said it is "committed to humane processing practices".

On the bestiality allegations, it added: "We are unable to comment on the police charge, as this matter is now before the courts."

The UK's economic inactivity rate was 21.8% in the three-month period, higher than a year earlier, the Office for National Statistics said.

It means 9.2 million people aged between 16 and 64 in the UK are not in work or education or looking for a job.

Concerns have been raised over worker shortages affecting the British economy.

The number of people not employed or actively looking for work surged during the COVID pandemic, but then started to fall as lockdowns ended and restrictions eased.

Cross-dressing teacher quits over viral pic

A CROSS-dressing teacher who went viral for wearing a bright pink dress to school has resigned, despite school officials clearing him of any wrongdoing.

Chemistry teacher Rachmad Tjachyad was initially put on leave during an investigation into an incident sparked by him wearing the dress and matching coloured cowboy hat and boots on Valentine's Day at Hebron High in Carrollton, Texas.

The Lewisville Independent School District later said its review "affirmed there are no specific policies related to staff attire on dress-up days," and more than 20,000 people signed an online petition pushing for him to be reinstated.

However, Tjachyad wrote a letter to his students announcing he was quitting anyway.

"After much thought and consideration, I believe this decision is best for everyone," he wrote.

"It has been very difficult to see the hateful comments on social media about me and about Hebron High School, and that has greatly influenced my decision to remove myself from the narrative."

Texas Governor Greg Abbott said at the time: "No parent should be forced by the state to send their child to this school."

The branch in The Drove Retail Park, Newhaven, East Sussex, was shut for several hours as pest control experts were brought in.

It is currently unclear if the pet snake was also taken into the branch in the seaside town.

A spokesperson for McDonald's said: "On Friday evening, we were made aware that a customer had entered our Newhaven restaurant with live insects to feed a pet snake."

"As soon as we were made aware, we closed the restaurant and asked the customer to leave."

"We reopened later in the evening, having carried out a thorough clean of the restaurant."

"Pest control experts have been called to the restaurant today to carry out precautionary checks."

Prodnose advert chiefs back down over FKA Twigs poster...

VICTORY FOR YOUR

news@sundaysport.co.uk

SNOOTY advertising bosses have reversed their ban on a Calvin Klein promo starring FKA Twigs – after The Midweek Sport raised a stink.

In January, as reported in this paper, the Advertising Standards Authority banned the ad after it said the image in the campaign was likely to cause offence by "objectifying women".

In a statement, the agency said it had reversed its original decision after a review concluded the image is not sexually explicit.

However, the advert remains banned from display where it might be seen by children.

The regulator launched a probe in response to just TWO complaints from prodnose prudes about the poster (above), which shows FKA Twigs wearing a shirt drawn halfway around her body.

Text above the singer reads: "Calvins or nothing."

In its original ruling, the ASA found the image "placed viewers' focus on the model's body" rather than her clothing and "presented her as a stereotypical sexual object".

The musician hit back in a viral Instagram post, accusing the watchdog of double standards and saying she saw "a beautiful strong woman of colour" rather than an object.

The ASA added that it was aware of "significant strength of public feeling, including views expressed by FKA Twigs" in response to its original findings.

It said the decision to review the ban was "driven by our concern that our rationale for banning the ad was substantially flawed" and that the republished ruling was final.

'Lesbian fisting' film grant review

ARTS bosses will review a grant to a group laying on a lesbian FISTING and SQUIRTING show.

Creative Scotland awarded £84,555 to director Leonie Rae Gasson to develop film project Rein, which features "hardcore sex acts" with a casting call asking for sex workers with porn experience to fulfil roles in a "secret cave sex party".

The team behind the film are promising a fee of £270-per-day to take part in "non-simulated" sex and "hardcore" acts.

Creative Scotland has vowed to review the grant after discovering Rein was "considerably more explicit in its execution" than in the initial application.

PAIR TOOK DEAD OAP TO CASH IN AT BANK

TWO women propped up a dead man in their car to withdraw hundreds of pounds from his bank account, then dropped the corpse off at hospital.

Loreen Bea Feralo, 55, and Karen Casbohm, 63, are accused of driving the body of Douglas Layman, 80, to a drive-thru bank in Ashtabula, Ohio.

The women, who were not related to Layman but lived with him, removed the body from his home with the help of a third person.

They propped him up in the passenger seat "so that the cashier could see him, then tried to withdraw money from his account," Police Chief Robert Stell said.

"The bank had allowed this previously as long as they were accompanied by him," he added.

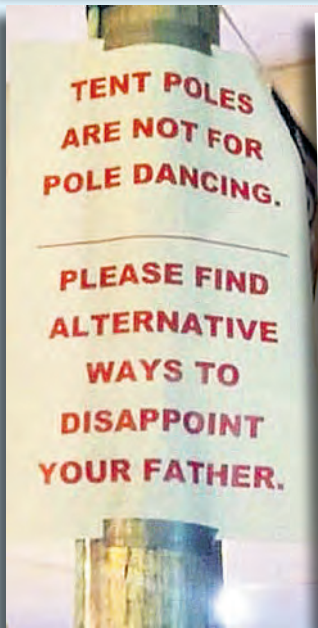

After withdrawing £700, the women drove Layman (left) to Ashtabula County Medical Centre, where they dropped off his corpse without identifying him or themselves.

Casbohm and Feralo have been charged with theft and gross abuse of a corpse.

COPS have launched a murder probe after porn star Sophia Leone was found dead at home, at the age of 26.

The grot actress was found "unresponsive" in her New Mexico apartment on March 1 and the cause of death is being investigated.

However, the Los Angeles agency 101 Modelling, which handled some of Sophia's bookings, said her death was being investigated as a "robbery and homicide".

Her stepfather, Mike Romero, wrote on a GoFundMe page that the family was "seeking justice for Sophia".

Meanwhile, Brian Berke, who runs the star's Florida-based agency, AMA Modelling, said: "At 18 you started with me at AMA and now at 26 I have to say goodbye.

LOOK out, fellas, 'cos your missus is about to go AWOL for a few weeks...

All SIX seasons of women's show Sex and the City are heading to Netflix.

All 94 episodes which follow pals Carrie, Samantha, Charlotte and Miranda's romantic and sexual adventures will start streaming on Netflix from April 1.

As announced in July, Warner Bros Discovery – parent company of HBO (the network which first aired the series in 1998) – inked a content agreement with Netflix, authorising a licensing deal for several series, including Six Feet Under and True Blood.

Spawned

Author Candace Bushnell, whose Nineties column in The New York Observer spawned the series, previously weighed in on the deal between HBO and Netflix, claiming she won't be affected financially.

"All of these men who are in charge of things, they just keep moving these cards around to make money, because every time they move the cards around, somebody's skimming," she said.

But SATC is not a complete desert for blokes, as there are plenty of teats in it.

Here's a selection of some of the very best...

There's a lot of nerve endings back there and when you are being penetrated in the ass, the bloke's willy can massage your vaginal wall which can trigger an orgasm.

It literally makes me explode with delight every time I do it that way. But the guy has to do it right.

If you bash it in there like you're just plunging a sink, then it's not going to give her any pleasure.

The trick is to take everything very slowly and use lots and lots of good lubricant.

Give it a try – you'll love it, too!

Son battered mum to death after tatt row

A MAN bludgeoned his mother to death after she tried to stop him from slicing a tattoo off his leg.

James Doran, 30 (above), fled after the brutal slaying, where he led cops on a short pursuit and was eventually found covered in blood, reeking of booze and "acting erratically".

Doran is accused of killing his mother, 65-year-old Lillian Doran, inside the home they shared with several other family members in Gloucester Township, New Jersey, after the pair got into an "intense verbal argument".

"Witnesses stated that the previous evening, the victim and James had argued about his cutting a tattoo off his leg and walking around the house with a baseball bat," the complaint stated.

When cops arrived, they found Lillian Doran "obviously dead" on her bedroom floor suffering from what appeared to be blunt force trauma.

Her car and her son were noticeably absent from the home.

Doran is being held in Bedford County, Pennsylvania, while he awaits extradition to New Jersey.

Knob-rot on the up since pandemic...

EUROPE is in the grip of a CLAP epidemic, with reported gonorrhoea cases nearly doubling.

The European Centre for Disease Prevention and Control expressed "deep concern" with the rising rates.

Syphilis cases rose by 34% between 2021 and 2022, amounting to more than 35,000 cases in the latter year, while chlamydia cases jumped by 16% to more than 216,000.

More than 70,000 individuals were reported with gonorrhoea infections in 2022 – a 48% surge from the year before.

Other STIs, including lymphogranuloma venereum and congenital syphilis also saw major increases.

"The numbers paint a stark picture, one that needs our immediate attention," ECDC Director Andrea Ammon said.

The surge follows years of rising STI rates in many countries, which was momentarily halted by government guidance for social distancing during the COVID pandemic.

Macron says claim is affecting sex life...

BOSS FROG: MY OLD WIFE IS NOT A MAN

BOLLOCKS: Emmanuel scotched rumours about his missus Brigitte

FRENCH President Emmanuel Macron says that rumours his wife was born a BLOKE are affecting their SEX LIFE!

Macron has angrily hit back at longstanding conspiracy theories that his 70-year-old wife Brigitte was born a man and is transgender, calling them "false and fabricated".

The 47-year-old was unusually candid and emotional about the ongoing speculation in some right-wing circles about Brigitte, whom he married in 2007.

"The worst thing is the false information and fabricated scenarios," Macron said.

"People eventually believe them and disturb you, even in your intimacy."

Brigitte's lookalike daughter, lawyer Tiphaine Auzaine, 40, also addressed the painful rumours in an interview last month.

She said: "I have concerns about the level of society when I hear what is circulating on social networks about my mother being a man."

"The confidence of what is affirmed and the credit given to what is proclaimed. Anyone can say anything about anyone, and it takes time to get it taken down."

The speculation came to a head last summer, when a court in Normandy handed down a judgment in a defamation lawsuit against two French women, Amandine Roy, 52 – a psychic – and freelance journalist Natacha Rey, 48.

By COLIN HURST
news@sundaysport.co.uk

Both claimed in a since-deleted four-hour YouTube video in 2021 that Brigitte was born as a baby boy called Jean-Michel Trogneux in 1953 – but that is actually the name of the first lady's brother.

The women also alleged that Brigitte Macron's first husband, André-Louis Auzière, had never actually existed before he died in 2019, aged 68.

The Macrons first met when Brigitte, then 40, taught drama at the Catholic Providence school in Amiens. The future president was 15 and her daughter was his classmate.

When they tied the knot in 2007, Emmanuel, then-29, told his three stepchildren: "Thanks for accepting us... a not-quite-normal couple."

Emily hangs out at the Oscars

ALTHOUGH the model and actress says she's fed up with men looking at her, Emily Ratajkowski turned heads at the Vanity Fair Oscars bash.

Emily, 32, donned a daring, sculpted white gown from the French brand Jacquemus, which showed off acres of tit.

An onlooker said: "I tried not to look but then just could not help staring. I'd really love to have a lick at her teats and that."

#HOT'N'HORNY

JUSTIN DUNN'S ROOM 101

WHAT'S ANNOYING HIM THIS WEEK?

We little people don't matter to them...

WHEN the natural order of things in the UK ended abruptly in June 2016, the previous bosses didn't have a clue what to do.

They stared at the sky. Shook their heads. Moved their feet around in the dirt.

Checked their watches. Took in a deep breath. Checked their watches again.

Glanced at the phone, wondering when on earth that "all is as it should be" WhatsApp text would arrive.

They'd shout to Old Johnny to make sure the ponies were fed and seen to. Bark at Old Molly to make sure the bacon was streaky and crispy.

Wonder what that buxom young filly from two homesteads down was doing sometime after 2pm.

Embarrassing

But all of those worthwhile pursuits which would normally simply suit himself just fine were being upset by the dreadful, appalling, embarrassing peasant's revolt.

Millions, it transpired, had disagreed with him.

"Have they," he wondered, standing in his fancy wellies in an otherwise empty but muddy field in Oxfordshire, "just told me to f**k off?"

And "very much so, yes", was the answer.

The decision voted for in our referendum on our membership of the intensely dull, entirely undemocratic, and increasingly absolutely useless European Union was a breaking point they would never accept.

Because Little People don't matter. Not to the Tories, who are clearly both barking mad but equally useless and staring a huge-scale annihilation in the face.

Certainly not to Labour, either, who cater now only for Cambridge idiots and north London ideologues, both of which are interchangeable.

And definitely not to George Galloway, the most shameless man now once again in Westminster on behalf of the Look At Me In My Hat Party.

Then we have Lee Anderson jumping from the Tories to Reform, which I assume means he now has to swap desks at GB News.

Or you've got the entire sinking ship of the Government's front bench rats all pretending they don't want to drown.

Or the Lib Dems, which, let's face it, no-one's heard of for weeks, and no-one's arsed about, and could anyway easily all be rotting away on the seabed, and we still wouldn't know.

So, for now, we have this lot.

But no-one thinks Rishi Sunak is going to suddenly become a great Prime Minister rather than the ineffectual nerd-in-short-trousers he currently is.

No-one is ever going to believe anything other than that his real claim to fame is as a star of The Umbrella Academy.

The blueprint for being PM is to do the cool, bold, impressive stuff first and then be a bit shit later on.

See Mr Blair for comparisons: People's Princess! Yay! Illegal Iraq War! Not so yay!

Incomparable

But at least people voted for Just Call Me Tony But Now Sir And Don't Ask Where My Money Comes From Because That's Just Rude And I'm On The Incomparable Leftist Side Of The Virtuous.

Whereas Rishi, like his predecessor Liz, but unlike their predecessor Boris, has done the opposite – getting into office without the people voting for him.

Pissing off everyone the moment you got the keys to No.10.

Coming up with nothing.

Fixing tiny leaks while icebergs are tearing apart the hull.

And then, just when everyone is desperate to hear something, anything, to raise their spirits, what does he come up with?

More MATHS.

See you at the polling station.

Tramp broke into home for bedside w*nk

A HOMELESS man on parole broke into a woman's home while she was sleeping and furiously masturbated next to her.

Anthony Romero, a career criminal, barged into the victim's home in Santa Monica, California, in the early hours.

When the woman, who was not identified, woke up, Romero, 28 (above), was allegedly masturbating next to her bed and touching her face, Police Lt Erika Aklufi said.

The horrified woman told Romero to leave and he fled before police arrived.

Officers obtained surveillance footage to identify Romero, who they found the next morning on Santa Monica Boulevard.

Drone

Cops used a drone and police dog while arresting him.

He has since been charged with burglary, attempt to commit rape and indecent exposure.

Romero was out on parole for a weapons violation at the time of this incident.

He has previously been arrested for shoplifting, public intoxication, resisting arrest, battery on a police officer, and parole violations.

Romero is expected back in court next month.

Burglar held for cleaning in the nude

A WOMAN broke into a house then took off her top and started rubbing her BOOBS when the homeowner ordered her to leave.

Bonkers Misty Ranae Sitton, 41, then stripped FULLY NUDE and started cleaning the house.

When cops arrived at the scene in Chatsworth, Georgia, they observed Sitton "covered up by a blanket, playing in a bowl of water".

Officers asked Sitton why she was there, and she stated she was there to "clean, due to the house being worthy of cleaning".

They arrested and handcuffed her and transported her to the Murray County Jail.

Sitton faces charges including disorderly conduct and criminal trespass.

This case is pending in court.

A police source said: "There's only one way to explain this case— drugs."

"And, of course, it's a great excuse for drinking a few pints of Guinness!"

Levi added: "My favourite way to celebrate St Patrick's Day approaching is to have a flutter on the Cheltenham Gold Cup."

"I usually do quite well – I guess it must be the luck of the Irish rubbing off on me!"

Glamour legend braves fire for charity LOUISE IS HOT STUFF!

WE all know glamour legend Louise Hodges is hot stuff...

The busty babe literally walked through fire at the weekend in her latest fund-raising stunt.

The big-hearted babe regularly raises money for good causes and this time round she was helping Harlington Hospice in west London.

Sizzling

The hospice supports people living with serious or terminal illness – providing care to help them live each day to the fullest.

And so Louise walked across HOT COALS in a sizzling sponsored FIRE WALK!

To a backing tune of The Prodigy's Firestarter, Louise walked straight across the hot coals with BARE FEET – before blowing a kiss to friends and fans.

She told us: "I did it! Yes, I was nervous but I just had to think of all the people who had sponsored me and how that money would help Harlington Hospice."

It's not the first time Louise has taken part in a hair-raising stunt for charity.

She's previously abseiled down the ArcelorMittal Orbit tower at the Queen Elizabeth Olympic Park in Stratford, east London, and down the Royal London Hospital in Whitechapel for good causes.

THE WORLD FAMOUS AGONY Page

Dear Lexi,

I'VE been married to my missus for five years and I've just discovered a shocking secret she's been keeping from me.

She suddenly told me last week that she's bisexual and wants us to have a threesome with another woman.

Now I know most blokes would give up a left bollock to be in my position, but I'm not sure I want to go down this road again.

You see, I've tried it before – and although it was a great experience, it ended up backfiring on me.

My ex-girlfriend ended up taking a fancy to the other bird and dumped me to move in with her.

I'm worried that the same thing could happen again if I agree to fulfilling my wife's fantasy. Any advice.

PK, Edinburgh

Lexi says...

FILM it, and even if you do end up getting dumped again, at least you've got something to put in the wank bank.

Dear Lexi,

MY husband is really into women's underwear – and the sexier the better.

He's always buying see-through or crotchless knickers, peephole bras with basques, stockings and suspenders.

But they are not for me – they are for HIM!

I must admit, though, that his penis is always rock-hard when he's wearing the kinky skimpiers.

But is this normal?

RG, Northants

Lexi says...

IF he lets you have some benefit of his hardness, don't worry about it.

I shed my inhibitions as neighbour sucked me off

Dear Lexi,

THE other day I was in the shed on my allotment, tossing myself off over the pictures in one of a stack of old-ish porn mags I keep under a pile of old sacks.

Just as I was getting to the vinegar strokes I heard a knock – and then the shocked face of the wife of the bloke who has the next allotment appeared at the window.

I quickly pulled my pants up and went out to explain that as a lonely widower all I could rely on was my stash of old jazz mags and didn't trust the internet.

She said: "Aww, I understand love, do you want a suck? My hubby's gone to B&Q for a bag of manure".

Well, I've never looked a gift horse in the mouth and the next thing I was sitting on a stool in the shed with her sucking greedily on my member until I spurted.

She then wiped her gob and left, but I'm sure her hubby suspects something.

What do you think?

Should we let stranger film our sexhibitions?

Dear Lexi,

THE wife and I are both big exhibitionists.

We find it thrilling to have sex in places where we might get caught – in the car, at the beach in the summer, in changing rooms and even on public transport.

Once, we got horny on a train and started diddling with each other and getting carried away.

As it happens, the carriage was half full of football supporters who, far from telling us to cut it out, encouraged us to get stuck – which we did, to their cheers and howls of delight.

Helmet

We are both in our late-20s, have high sex drives and have fit, well-toned bodies.

My wife's a gorgeous-looking redhead with fantastic tits and doesn't mind who sees them. In order for us to reach a wider audience for our exhibitionism, we have started driving to a local dogging site.

We have become so incredibly popular at this site that large crowds gather to watch us going at it – same time, same place, every week.

Other couples often get a bit miffed that the audience tends to gather round our car because we put on such a great show.

Last week, though, we said we would only perform for the crowd if each of them slipped us a tenner through the car window.

With almost £200 in the kitty we put on a real exhibition – lasting well over half-an-hour.

First the wife wanked me to my full nine inches, gently squeezing my balls and licking the tip of my cock.

She then took my helmet between her soft, full lips and began sucking it until I was almost ready to come in her mouth.

Then she whipped me out of her gob and straddled me while I sucked on her magnificent tits, which were bouncing around in my face.

After that we got in the back seat and I bent her over, doggy-style, to take her first in the fanny and later up the rear as the crowd looked on and pulled on their puds.

Then for the grand finale she brought me to the brink in her mouth again before I splashed my hot spunk all over her face – in true porn film style.

After the crowd had applauded – and shot their loads – and moved away, one guy came over to us and offered us £500 if he could film our next public session.

He insists that it's just for his own private use.

I'm up for it, but the wife is a bit worried in case he posts it online and someone who she works with sees it on the net.

What should we do?

FT, West Midlands

Lexi says...

DON'T do it – but see how he feels about paying £250 for a private show at your place. I'm sure the cash would come in pretty handy.

Dear Lexi,

I'M a recent divorcee, aged 33, and I love to wear stockings, sussies and a basque.

That's my usual gear under whatever I've got on for the day, which is normally a long skirt and blouse. I'm enjoying being single for the first time in ages and have begun to notice the blokes at work eyeing me up all the time. I think they know what kind of underwear I have on because one of them offered me £20 to lift up my skirt and show him.

He was a good-looking fella, so I thought, 'What the hell?'

We went to the toilets and I hitched up my skirt and then bent over to show him my bum.

When I turned round he had his cock in his hand and was beating one off.

His cock was huge and I eased down my panties and began to play with myself, too.

Just as I was about to come I shouted at him to come I shouted at him to ram it in, and he did – bringing me to a huge orgasm.

But word got round the office and now all the lads are offering me cash to flash.

What can I do?

TY, West Yorks

Lexi says...

JUST stick to the one guy or you won't be emptying sacks, you get it!

I bought vibrator to replace hubby

Dear Lexi,

MY hubby and I have been married for 20 years, but we hardly ever have sex these days.

When we were first married we were at it all the time – he used to love going down on me for hours on end and giving me multiple orgasms before ramming his big, hard willy up me.

I was discussing the problem with a female workmate recently, as us girls do.

She suggested I get myself a vibrator and have some solo fun if my old man isn't up for shagging any more.

I went online and after looking at all the recommendations bought myself one – paying extra for next day delivery because I was getting wet just thinking about using it.

It arrived the next day and that evening, while my hubby was in the pub, I lay on the bed with my new toy. I put batteries in and eased it over my clit and into my pussy.

I quickly fell in love with it and soon had a massive orgasm.

Since then I have been doing it four nights a week while my fella is out boozing.

Last night, my hubby came home early, caught me at it and called me a 'dirty slut'.

I explained that I enjoyed sex and as I was not getting any from him, I had to do something about it.

Now he won't even talk to me.

What should I do?

NW, Lincs

#HOT'N'HORNY

GORGEOUS Samantha Swan says glamour modelling is her perfect profession as she LOVES getting her kit off!

The 32DD babe, from Southport, admitted she got a real thrill out of posing with her boobs on show when she stripped for her first ever modelling shoot.

Sam is new to modelling, but she could have fooled us as she looks like a pro in these jaw-dropping nude snaps.

She said: "I was nervous at first, but once I'd chatted to the snappa all my worries disappeared.

"Then, as soon as I took my clothes off and the camera started snapping, I felt amazing.

"I absolutely loved being the centre of attention – it felt really empowering.

"And having my photos printed in The Midweek Sport is a total dream come true!"

BIG-boobed Carinna is delighted it's warming up at last.
She said: "I can wear really skimpy tops and, when the sun goes in and it gets a bit chilly, my nipples go all hard and point."
"It really is the best of both worlds!"

WHERE REAL BABES SNAP THEMSELVES!

THIS is it...the only newspaper feature where REAL BABES show their boobs!

Self-shooting topless pics is a craze that's sweeping the country - but you don't need a swanky new smartphone to enjoy 'em - as we'll be printing the pick of the snaps EVERY week!

SEND US YOUR SELF-SHOTS!

SHOW ME THE HONEY!

WELCOME to the interactive Midweek Sport – where YOU get to choose the stunnas appearing on these pages!

That's right fellas, we publish sexy snaps of the babes you most want to see – TOPLESS or even NAKED.

Every Wednesday, Show Me The Honey features the cute curves of the glamour girls you're clamouring for. This service – UNIQUE to British newspapers – is totally FREE!

All you have to do is drop us an email to request sundaysport.co.uk telling us why you want to see your favourite girl, then sit back and let us do the rest.

KATIE ORGILL

WARWICKSHIRE lass Katie Orgill is the pick of long-time Sport reader Nicky Holt, who told us spending a night with the Rugby hottie would be his ultimate fantasy.

Nicky, 47, from Telford, Shropshire, said that he gets a stiffy just thinking about hopping into bed with Katie and getting to grips with her 36Cs – even if it is just a dream.

He said: "Katie has a look in her eyes that just says, 'I could show you a good time!' and I would love to find out first-hand."

"Sadly, I think I will have to settle for another sexy topless photo to satisfy me, for now at least!"

JOANNE LATHAM

IT seems only yesterday that you'd open any copy of the Sport and legendary Joanne Latham would be there in all her glory.

Steve McIntosh, 56, emailed in to ask for a snap of the Wolverhampton legend to remind him how stunning she is.

He said: "Joanne is gorgeous, she's a real 'girl next door' type with natural beauty and lovely 38DD boobs!"

"Do me a favour, I'd love to see them in the paper again soon."

Here you go, Steve!

ROISIN HUNTER

SCHORCHING Scots lovely Roisin Hunter is always a favourite among our readers, thanks to her eye-watering pair of 30DD sweater-stretchers.

And the latest fan to request a topless shot of Roisin, now living in Islington, north London, is David Jones, 39, who hails from Cardiff.

Pharmacist David said: "Roisin is a real beauty and I would love to see more of her in the paper."

"She has an absolutely cracking set of knockers and I don't think she gets half the attention she deserves."

"Come on Midweek Sport, give us a quick peek!"

ALL THE TOP TIPS FOR WEDNESDAY AND # AB'S FAB TO GRAB DOUBLE!

Mullins star one El of a bet in Champion

EL FABILO is difficult to oppose as he looks to double his Cheltenham Festival tally in Wednesday's Queen Mother Champion Chase.

Willie Mullins' bay has been beaten just once since joining his current stable and is six from six since having his attentions turned to fences.

His novice chasing career last season was a clean sweep that saw him win the Irish Arkle, the Arkle and the Barberstown Chase, and he returned this season in equally good form to land both the Hilly Way and the Dublin Chase.

He now returns to Cheltenham and has any number of factors in his favour as he tries to maintain his flawless chasing record, including course and distance form and a liking for the expected soft ground.

In the opening Gallagher Novices' Hurdle it is Mullins' Ballyburn who can get the Clouton maestro off the mark on the second day of the meeting.

The six-year-old had the option

THE GOD OF ODDS With his fab Festival fancies

of running in both this race and Tuesday's Supreme Novices' Hurdle as he is proven over both two and two and a half miles.

His form at the longer trip is a 25-length maiden win at Leopardstown in December, where he beat subsequent winner Cleatus Poolaw out of sight when still on the bridle.

He returned to the same track to contest the Grade One Ireland 50th Derby Sale Novice Hurdle, where he was any easy winner again over two miles when prevailing by seven lengths.

His potential still remains untapped and he is bred to get the trip, meaning the extra distance and the uphill finish may well bring out more improvement.

Continuing the Mullins theme,

Fact To File will line up in the Brown Advisory Novices' Chase with lofty expectations to fulfil, but he is expected to rise to the challenge.

Arguably the second-best bumper horse around last season, the gelding skipped a hurdling career and graduated straight to chasing, finishing second to American Mike on debut.

Next time out he defeated Zannahy by 17 lengths and although he faced only one rival in stablemate Gaelic Warrior on his most recent outing in the Grade One Ladbrokes Novice Chase, he was hugely impressive and the clock watchers were suitably impressed.

Everything suggests this step up to three miles will be very much to his liking, not least because he was a three-mile point-to-point winner as a five-year-old.

In the Glenfarclas Chase, Minella Indo can enjoy a triumphant return to the scene of his finest hour for trainer Henry de Bromhead.

The 2021 Gold Cup winner, Minella Indo has recently turned his hand to the cross-country discipline as he lines up a tilt at the Grand National in April.

His first attempt around the track came in the Cross Country Handicap Chase in December, and under top-weight he took happily to the task to finish fourth when giving plenty of weight to all of the rivals ahead of him.

His Cheltenham form includes only one blip and now on level weights, he looks the real threat to Delta Work as that one bids to retain his title.

Mullins can resume his dominance in the Champion Bumper with You Oughta Know, the winner of two bumpers so far by margins of 11 and two lengths at Kilbeggan and Galway.

He was beaten by Jeroboam

Machin when most recently seen in a Leopardstown Grade Two, but that horse has been ruled out for the season and in his absence You Oughta Know arguably brings the strongest form of all to the table.

WEDNESDAY WONDERS

1.30 Ballyburn, 2.10 Fact To File, 2.50 Langer Dan, 3.30 EL FABILO (NAP), 4.10 Minella Indo, 4.50 Harper's Brook, 5.30 You Oughta Know.

THURSDAY FANCIES

CRAMBO can complete his swift ascent through the ranks to land the Paddy Power Stayers' Hurdle on day three of the Cheltenham Festival.

Fergal O'Brien's seven-year-old has won five of his eight hurdle runs, with his only poor efforts when pulled up in a Newbury Grade One in December 2022 and finishing seventh in an Aintree Grade One last spring.

He has looked a fine stayer in the making this term though, cantering home on his return at Aintree before just getting caught out off a slow early pace when stepped up to three miles for the first time in a Haydock handicap.

Crambo showed that running to be all wrong when grabbing his first Grade One in the Long Walk at Ascot, edging out star veteran Paisley Park by a short head in what was a fine battle to the line.

While the heart would love Paisley Park to turn that form around, the head says Crambo is on the up and can mount the strongest home defence against Irish favourite Teahupo.

Ginny's Destiny is three from four around Cheltenham this season and can make the leap to Grade One level in the Turners Novices' Chase.

He looked in need of his initial spin when seventh back in October and has barely looked back since, hacking up by 10 lengths next time before fending off the reopposing Grey Dawning by three-quarters of a length subsequently.

The runner-up was conceding 3lb and made an awful mistake at the penultimate fence, but Ginny's Destiny was resolute in victory and really impressed when winning his prep under top-weight on Trials day here.

Paul Nicholls landed that race with subsequent Turners hero Stage Star last year, and it could again be a winning formula.

The Ryanair Chase has an open feel, but preference is for champion Envoi Allen.

The 10-year-old has not run since pushing Gerri Colombe all the way over three miles at Christmas due to unsuitable ground while he was also a non-runner at Thurles in January.

He is a horse who runs well fresh though and has shone at the Festival on three occasions previously, winning the 2019 Bumper, the Ballymore the following year and this race last term, when he accounted for Shishkin by nearly three lengths.

Gordon Elliott has made no secret of the regard in which he holds Mares' Novices' Hurdle contender Brighterdaysahead.

She has shown plenty on the track, winning her two bumper starts and each of her three hurdles spins, most recently when cruising home in a Navan Listed heat.

This is obviously another step up, but she yet to engage top gear in public.

Anna Bunnina can go well at a nice price in the Pertemps Network Final Hurdle. John McConnell's runner tried three miles for the first time in a Musselburgh qualifier for this and finished a fair fourth after coming from a way off the pace. Freddie Gingell was aboard that day and he again takes off 5lb.

THURSDAY TIPS

JONBON: Goes
for Champion

Hendo backs Jonbon for Champion

By PAUL THOMAS

NICKY Henderson is optimistic Jonbon can give familiar foe El Fabiolo a run for his money when they clash for a third time in the Queen Mother Champion Chase at Cheltenham today.

Jonbon was a narrow victor when the top-class pair first clashed in a Grade One novice hurdle at Aintree in April 2022, but El Fabiolo took his revenge 12 months ago when running out a facile winner of the Arkle Trophy.

With Jonbon making a fine start to his season with wins in the Shloer Chase at Cheltenham and the Tingle Creek at Sandown, and El Fabiolo successful on his reappearance in the Hilly Way at Cork, their rivalry was scheduled to resume in January's Clarence House Chase, but the abandonment of racing at Ascot meant they instead went their separate ways.

While El Fabiolo stretched his unbeaten record over fences to six at the Dublin Racing Festival, Jonbon suffered a shock reverse in a rescheduled Clarence House on Cheltenham Trials day, with Henderson of the opinion that the extra week proved detrimental to his charge.

"I was really looking forward to Ascot and the clash with El Fabiolo, we were in absolute tip-top shape and I was very confident for that, we were very prepared for it," he said.

"Jonbon is the one horse, when you've wound up the clock, a week was a long time for him, I couldn't wind him up anymore and it gave us a headache of a week.

"They'll go some gallop in the Champion Chase and I think that suits him. It looks as if Edwardstone has come into pacemaking duties and he looked very good at Newbury, but in some ways I don't think that is a bad thing for us."

El Fabiolo will look to

provide Willie Mullins and Paul Townend with a third successive Champion Chase victory following the back-to-back triumphs of Energumene.

Townend said: "He's made the step into open company well this year and goes here off the back of a good win at the Dublin Racing Festival. He's another exciting one for the week."

Edwardstone won the 2022 Arkle for Alan King, and while he was no match for Jonbon in either the Shloer or the Tingle Creek earlier in the season, he looked right back to his best under a positive ride in last month's Game Spirit Chase at Newbury.

"He's never really been away and his two runs behind Jonbon were very good. All right his run at Kempton over two and a half didn't work, which was disappointing, but he has done very little wrong in his life," said King.

"He's in good order, but this is a different ball game to the Game Spirit."

On whether Edwardstone could attempt to make all the running, the trainer added: "We'll worry about tactics on the day, but there will be plenty of pace on and the Tizzard horse (Elxir De Nutz) will go forward. We're certainly not going to drop him in, but we'll see what happens."

"We've had a good preparation, but it's up to him now. It's nice to be part of it, but I'm not going there with any great expectations that we are going to win it."

GET BOWLED OVER BY OUR CRICKET NEWS

COMEBACK:
Jofra Archer

HARMY: TAKE IT SLOW WITH JOF

By NED TRUEMAN

ENGLAND should play the long game with Jofra Archer and prime him for India's visit next year as well as the 2025/26 Ashes, according to former fast bowler Steve Harmison.

Archer's last Test was more than three years ago, but he remains a much-coveted asset and England are hopeful he will be available for their T20 World Cup title defence in the Caribbean in June.

Harmison believes the next two five-Test series against India in the summer of 2025 then in Australia the following winter should take priority above all else where Archer is concerned.

Winning

"It's slowly but surely with him," Harmison told Midweek Sport.

"I'd build Jofra Archer up to play in 10 Test matches over the next two years — five against India and five against Australia or four each.

"I'd treat him like a prize racehorse. If England can keep him fit for the majority of those two series, I'd feel as though they have got a chance of winning.

"If he can play in Test matches in between and his body is holding up then everything after that is a bonus."

Archer has had a succession of stress fractures in his bowling elbow and another in his back since his most recent red-ball appearance for England, while his last professional appearance was 10 months ago.

He joined England in Barbados before Christmas during their white-ball tour of the West Indies and took part in some bowling drills as part of his rehabilitation from the latest setback in his right elbow.

Just a couple of days afterwards, Archer, who was awarded a two-year central contract in October, blindsided England by playing for his old school side in the Barbados Cricket Association league.

But Harmison feels it could be better for everyone involved if the 28-year-old is allowed to get back to full fitness away from prying eyes.

"When I heard he was playing in that game in Barbados, I was over the moon, I just wish he had told (England's managing director of men's cricket) Rob Key first," Harmison said.

"If he turns up for the T20 World Cup, fantastic, if he turns up for a Test match this summer, fantastic, but the most important thing for me is about his mental health and making sure he's in a position to play cricket without thinking, 'In however many weeks, I'm going to be injured again'."

Promising

"The more he does the bowling repetition and the muscle memory stuff under less scrutiny and less pressure, the better it will be for him coming back into top-level cricket."

England have won three and lost six of their last 10 Tests against India and Australia and, in both series, there were instances where Ben Stokes' sidelet promising positions slip through their fingers.

After India sealed a 4-1 triumph in Dharamsala on Sunday, England head coach Brendon McCullum admitted they were too "timid" in passages and said their 'Bazball' style would be refined to adapt to such situations when they tour in future.

Harmison, who criticised England's lack of a warm-up match before the series, expects them to rebound with six wins out of six against the West Indies and Sri Lanka this summer, but he insisted there must be lessons learned from what happened in India where they played better than many expected.

"They'll win all six Test matches comfortably," said Harmison, who played 123 times for England between 2002 and 2009. "It's not a case of looking at just the summer, they've got to look beyond that."

"They've got to be smarter in identifying situations. We've got some cricket brains leading this team, but sometimes inside that dressing room, we might have individual characters who are happy to say, 'That's the way we play', and that's not good enough for me, it's not acceptable."

"They have to be more accountable when they make mistakes. This is not the Dog and Duck, this is Test match cricket."

"Having the crutch of, 'That's the way we play, it's Bazball'. No, Bazball is giving you the freedom to be the best version of yourself possible. You've still got to play the situation."

Clear as Mud for Mo after Toon win

BLUES BOSS HAILS HIS SUPERSUB

MAURICIO Pochettino warned there will be more problems for Chelsea if they fail to build on their 3-2 victory over Newcastle at Stamford Bridge as he praised the impact of match-winning sub Mykhailo Mudryk.

The Ukrainian came off the bench to score with a superb goal to make it 3-1 in the 76th minute, pelting on to the ball at full tilt before tricking his way beyond Fabian Schar and nipping round Martin Dubravka to finish.

"It was a very good goal and that is what we expect from a player from the bench – impact," said Pochettino.

"Then it is about competing with different players in his position. Then he will deserve to (start)."

The goal helped settle a finely balanced game, the kind that has so often slipped away from Chelsea under Pochettino.

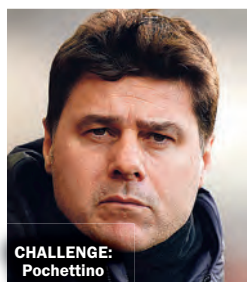

They had already allowed an advantage to get away from them on the stroke of half-time.

Leading 1-0, Chelsea made two errors to hand Newcastle a way back into the match.

First, the otherwise impressive Malo Gusto was caught trying to juggle the ball in midfield, then Trevoh Chalobah rushed up from central defence to assist and left a gaping hole into which Alexander Isak darted and rifled the visitors' net.

Earlier, Nicolas Jackson had given his team a deserved sixth-minute lead, applying the deftest touch with his heel to Cole Palmer's strike, getting just enough contact to divert it out of the reach of Dubravka.

Palmer, brilliant again on

CHALLENGE: Pochettino

the right of a forward three, scored a 13th goal of his debut Chelsea season early in the second half.

Enzo Fernandez spotted the Blues' top-scorer in space and gave the ball to him with his back to goal. Palmer turned and lashed a shot inside the near post for 2-1.

Then came Mudryk's decisive moment of magic and, although Jacob Ramsey gave Chelsea a scare with a cracking late drive from range, Pochettino's young side clung on.

"We need to understand that we are Chelsea," said Pochettino. "We are in a project that is completely different (to the past). Some people might be confused. When people don't want to listen, it's difficult."

Tough

"But we are trying to explain we are a different Chelsea, we are building something different. It's going to be tough."

"We need to keep believing, even when it's tough circumstances. We played (the Carabao Cup) final, 120 minutes, then after three days we play the FA Cup and we play Brentford. In six days we played three very tough games, nearly with the same team."

"It was really tough. If that means we are a disaster, OK. The most important thing is it's not affecting the team. They know what they need to do and we keep believing."

"The win today is important for our fans to be a little bit more calm. But I think if we don't win our next game, it's going to be again a problem. That is Chelsea."

Newcastle boss Eddie Howe reflected on a match that had been there for the taking before Mudryk's late strike.

"I thought it was a game in the balance and an open game," he said. "The game got away from us with the goals we conceded which were really poor from our perspective – they were self-induced."

"Wherever you play you have to pride yourself on being tight and I don't think Chelsea had an abundance of chances tonight."

"But the way the goals came from our perspective is hugely frustrating as we know the details have to get better."

FIGHTING TALK FROM WATKINS

By JOHN ANTHONY

ASTON Villa sharpshooter Ollie Watkins says Sunday's home humiliation at the hands of fellow Champions League hopefuls Tottenham does not define their season.

All eyes were on Villa Park as fourth-hosted fifth, with Unai Emery's side edging the first half before being blown away by Spurs.

James Maddison and Brennan Johnson goals were followed by Villa skipper John McGinn receiving a straight red for a reckless challenge on Destiny Udogie. Son Heung-min and substitute Timo Werner completed a 4-0 hammering in stoppage time.

"Really disappointing," Watkins said. "First half I felt we had opportunities, I had an opportunity myself. I've chopped back, maybe I should shoot."

"But I felt in the first half they didn't cause us too many problems, I think they had one corner."

"Second half we've come out a little bit slow and they're always quick coming out in the second half. They've scored two goals quickly and it's very difficult against a good side to come back from 2-0. Obviously, with our captain getting sent off as well, it was difficult."

The result saw Spurs cut the gap to fourth-placed Villa to two points.

Watkins' disappointment is clear after but there will be no wallowing in self-pity after what he believed was just a bump in the road.

"The ref said he checked it but (Micky Van De Ven) has definitely caught my Achilles there," the England ace said. "Then I felt another one, from I think it was Pedro Porro, in the early five minutes of the game, which is not great."

"But that's no excuse for a poor performance from myself, I can definitely do better and, as a team, we can do better."

"But this doesn't define us, this game doesn't define our season."

"We've done unbelievable to get where we are, unbelievably proud of all the boys, we've still got a lot of football to play. So, this game doesn't define our season."

FUMING: Watkins

IT'S SO TIGHT AT THE TOP OF

NOT THE ENDO FOR TITLE RUN

Japanese stopper believes point against City could be the decider

LIVERPOOL midfielder Wataru Endo was encouraged by their display against Manchester City and hopes the point they earned at Anfield will be vital in the title race.

Pep Guardiola's side were happier with the 1-1 draw even though it left them third in the table, a point behind Liverpool who were kept off top spot by Arsenal's goal difference.

The Gunners still have to go to the Etihad and should both Liverpool and City win all their remaining games, Jurgen Klopp's team would be crowned champions.

"Second half we had more chances than Man City so, yeah, we are disappointed about the result but we need to move forward," Endo said.

"But the way we played, with how we created the chances, I think it was amazing. If we keep playing like we did, the results will come.

By PAUL THOMAS

"At the end of the season, this one point might be important. That's what we want to say. So, we need to keep playing like this and just try to win every game."

Liverpool have history of taking the title race down to the final day against City, missing out by a point on two occasions as in 2018-19 they finished second with a record 97-point haul and in 2021-22 when they were runners up on 92.

In the first instance they won nine and drew one of their last 10 games – denied by City's remarkable finish of 14 successive victories – and in 2022 they won all but two of their final 18 fixtures, drawing against City and Tottenham. It appears the Reds will have to do something similar, if not better, if they are to win a second title in four years but, due to the nature of the three-horse race, no-one is quite sure what will be required.

"I don't think I have ever been involved in a title race with three teams," said manager Klopp, whose side are still in contention to win four trophies this season despite struggling with a host of injuries.

Favourite

"Germany was usually Bayern, but in one year we (Borussia Dortmund) became champions it was Leverkusen, and here there was only one team (City) who became champions usually and we stepped in between one time.

"I literally don't know if it changes something.

"We have 10 games to play, so obviously nothing is decided. There are plenty of games that we still have to play.

"The next one in the league is Brighton at home, traditionally it is not our favourite opponent. It is not that we think, 'Thank God it's Brighton'.

"That is a tough game for us. At one point we play Tottenham here, we have to go to Aston Villa.

"I would prefer to have 30 points between us and all the other teams but the realistic thing is are we really in that race from a performance point of view.

"But we need the players back as soon as possible.

"All the stories we created with the kids and stuff are wonderful, wonderful, I couldn't be happier about that, but of course we fight for the biggest prize in football."

Klopp could be in hot water with the Football Association after his comments about the penalty decision

THE PREMIER LEAGUE

FIGHTER: Cheap buy Endo has more than held his own at Liverpool this year at the end of the Manchester City game. The Reds equalised from the penalty spot but the German is convinced they should have another. There was a late VAR check after City's Jeremy Doku caught Alexis Mac Allister in the chest with his boot but nothing was given.

Kills

Klopp said: "This situation, on all positions on the pitch, is 100 per cent a foul and it's a yellow card. "He hit the ball but he can only hit the ball because his foot was right there. If the ball is not there, he kills him. "It's as easy as that. It's a penalty for all football people on the planet. "If you don't think it is one then maybe you're not a football person." But City defender Kyle Walker has backed referee Michael Oliver for not "crumbling" in a fierce Anfield atmosphere. Walker hailed Oliver's character and experience in withstanding the pressure. "I feel the ref did really well. Once you have the Anfield crowd behind them, he could've have crumbled," he said. "But that shows his experience, shows his character and that's why he is regarded as probably one of the best referees in this country and the world at this minute. "The VAR has checked it, the ref has done it. That's all I'm going to say." Former Premier League referee Dermot Gallagher claimed there would have been less fuss had Oliver awarded a potentially match-winning spot-kick. He is clearly not sure that the whistleblower made the right decision. "I think there would be less argument if it was given as a penalty. "If you give it, there won't be much talk about it after the game," he said. "It raises lots of dilemmas in my opinion."

Nev: Big clubs 'a disgrace' over funding

SALFORD co-owner Gary Neville has accused the Premier League of negligence towards the rest of English football and branded the failure to agree a new funding deal for the EFL as an "absolute disgrace".

This week's shareholders' meeting in London ended without an offer being made as top flight clubs feel the priority is to thrash out a new financial system to replace the current profitability and sustainability rules (PSR).

A six-year deal granting the EFL 14.75 per cent of net media revenue with the Premier League – projected to be worth in the region of £900million – has been mooted but clubs are focused on getting their own house in order first.

"I am more interested in the vote they didn't have, which was to support the rest of the Football League which they keep bumping down the road and it's an absolute disgrace," the former Manchester United defender said. "It is about the welfare of the game and the sustainability of the whole league."

"The Premier League at this moment in time are negligent in their dismissive nature, just pushing it down the road, thinking 'maybe a regulator will sort it, maybe we'll sort it' and not doing anything."

"That's not good governance, it just demonstrates to me that they are not looking after the whole game like they should be. "It angers me every time I see they have a Premier League meeting and seem to look after themselves but not look after the rest of football."

The Premier League, which earlier outlined its stance in a statement, made no comment when contacted for a response to Neville's remarks.

The Government has repeatedly said it wants the football authorities to agree a new financial settlement among themselves, but has warned that one could be imposed upon them by 'backstop' powers set to be given to the new independent regulator.

A Premier League spokesperson said on Monday: "At a Premier League shareholders' meeting today clubs agreed to prioritise the swift development and implementation of a new league-wide financial system."

"This will provide certainty for clubs in relation to their future financial plans and will ensure the Premier League is able to retain its existing world-leading investment to all levels of the game."

"Alongside this, Premier League clubs also reconfirmed their commitment to securing a sustainably-funded financial agreement with the EFL, subject to the new financial system being formally approved by clubs."

"The league and clubs also reaffirmed their ongoing and longstanding commitment to the wider game which includes £1.6 billion distributed to all levels of football across the current three-year cycle."

The Premier League's significant funding contributions cover all EFL clubs and National League clubs, as well as women and girls' football, and the grassroots of the game."

The EFL has declined to comment, and is expected to discuss the issue at a board meeting later this week.

KUHN IN GOOD NIC SAYS BREN

CELTIC manager Brendan Rodgers feels Nicolas Kuhn is beginning to reach the right levels after the winger enjoyed a promising first start at Parkhead. Kuhn set up the first of Daizen Maeda's three goals during Celtic's 4-2 Scottish Cup win.

The 24-year-old arrived from Rapid Vienna in January on the back of dental surgery.

Rodgers said: "In fairness to him, when he first came in he was in the midst of his break and I think he said he'd lost seven kilos.

"You can imagine that when you are only slight anyway. To lose over a stone, I think he found that he'd lost his strength and his running capacity.

"So it's been about building him up. I think he feels great now. He's still got a bit of work to do. But I think you saw that much more aggressive approach in his game. That's more of what we want to see. "It's just adaption. He'll progress I'm sure."

City have to be almost perfect for title

MAN City midfielder Rodri believes the champions have to win nine of their last 10 games to retain the title.

And he insists they are up for the challenge.

City played out a draw with Liverpool on Sunday that leaves Arsenal top.

The draw left City in third, a point behind the leaders but with the Gunners next up at the Etihad they remain in the hunt for an unprecedented fourth successive title.

After Arsenal there are tricky tests against Aston Villa and Tottenham – also at the Etihad – but, as the draw at Anfield was only the second time they have dropped points in the league since mid-December, the Spain international is confident they can put together another winning run.

"We need a break.

"We have the FA Cup game against Newcastle and then go to internationals, so it will be good for us to refresh and give the last push at the end of the season," he said.

"We know how good we are in the last part of the season, we just need to charge the batteries again and focus on the last 10 games.

"It seems you have to win nine or 10 games to win this Premier League.

"This is the challenge and we are going to go for it."

The bookies make City 6-5 favourites for the title with Liverpool and Arsenal both 9-4 shots.
